Center for Strategic Management: Stakeholder View
About the Center

Dear Reader

Welcome to the Center for Strategic Management: Stakeholder View. As one of the oldest stakeholder research groups in Europe, we are proud of our tradition of excellence in teaching and research belonging to this field.

We are very pleased to submit to your kind attention the Annual Report 2008 of the Center for Strategic Management: Stakeholder View at the University of Applied Sciences for Business Administration (HWZ), Zurich. With this booklet we aim to share our outcomes and activities of strategic stakeholder management with you.

Stakeholder management is an applied science and we are always aiming to contribute to the development of practical solutions based on an advanced theoretical foundation and on sound empirical investigations. Due to our ongoing research activities, we are in a constant and intensive exchange of demands and ideas with practitioners from various industries and with the leading international academics. This enables us to develop highly practical tools and instruments for implementation and maintenance of stakeholder management systems based on long-term stakeholder relationships in order to achieve more benefits and fewer risks.

The highlight of this year was the successful completion of the CTI-project “ICT Supported Stakeholder Management as a Success Factor in Business” and the request to propose another project to the CTI. We are also proud that HWZ, based on the quality of our research got the permission from the Federal Government to offer a Master of Science in Business Administration.

We hope that you will find this booklet interesting. If you wish to find out more about us please visit our homepage (http://www.fh-hwz.ch). If you would like to receive additional information or find a question unanswered please do not hesitate to contact us.

Best wishes

Only by including the interests of all parties linked to the firm mutual trust can be built which enables the firm’s sustainable success.
After a period of two and a half years, the project under the leadership of Prof. Dr. Sybille Sachs (HWZ) and Prof. Dr. Ruth Schmitt (FHNW) and with the support of the Commission for Technology and Innovation was completed successfully in June 2008. We are especially pleased by the extremely positive evaluation by the peer review of CTI:

“The reviewers of CTI have studied the results of the project with great interest. They established to their satisfaction that the scientific as well as the business goals were fully achieved. The reviewers are especially pleased by the extensive international interest in the scientific results.”

We want to thank everyone in the project team, in particular the four business partners AEW Energie AG, Feller AG, Hunziker Partner AG and Pfizer Switzerland for the extremely interesting and instructive collaboration.
Project Description

“ICT Supported Stakeholder Management as a Success Factor in Business”

At the basis of the project was the idea that every corporation, which uses the benefit potential of their stakeholder relations in a professional way, will acquire a competitive advantage over their competition. Corporations underestimate the potential gains of cooperation, information, knowledge or trust, for example. In the project, tools and methods were developed in order to systematically utilize these benefit potentials, and to create value together with and for stakeholders.

Previously a concept was missing for better understanding the influence of stakeholder relations on corporate success. With the Stakeholder Value Management System and the appropriate tools and methods developed by the project, these relationships could be understood. The system included a continuous management process, which deliberately and comprehensively dealt with the relevant stakeholders, and which made possible measures and their effects understandable and communicable.

The more a corporation maintains the dialogue with its relevant stakeholders on a partnership basis, the more probable it is that the tensions can be resolved among the many demands corporations face today. A corporation is successful in its innovative capacity, when it can create a position in the market and society for itself and its stakeholders. With the help of the Stakeholder Value Management System, the corporation can be shown where and how a systematic stakeholder management can contribute to it being innovative, competitive and trustworthy.

HWZ-Arena Panel Discussion

Health benefits instead of health costs

Discussions about health costs are ubiquitous in the media. On April 9th, 2008, three exponents of the Swiss health care system (Prof. Dr. med. Felix Gutzwiller, Dr. Petra Danielsohn-Weil, Manfred Manser) participated in a panel discussion about this topic, moderated by Prof. Dr. Sybille Sachs. More transparency and quality in the health care system was called for by all three of them. They agreed on the importance of a new incentive scheme to foster a healthy and responsible lifestyle. It was suggested that the actors in the health care system establish some common criteria for quality that should be controlled. A new, independent institution could enhance and monitor quality and focus not only on costs, but also on benefits.

In addition to our conference attendance 2008 we published and submitted the following book sections and papers for publication or conference attendance:

Various Working Papers, short notices in News Papers and periodical publication of a column in the “Neue Aargauer Zeitung“ by Prof. Dr. Sybille Sachs.
Sustainable Success with Stakeholders - The Untapped Potential

by Sybille Sachs, Edwin Rühli, Isabelle Kern

In spring 2009, the English version of the book “Lizenz zum Managen”, written by Sybille Sachs, Edwin Rühli and Isabelle Kern will be published by Palgrave. The book shows managers in a very hands-on manner how they can identify their stakeholders and cooperate with them in a mutually successful and satisfying way. It includes numerous examples from the case studies and from international firms, illustrating the stepping stones to a comprehensive stakeholder management. This makes it an indispensible companion for managers of small and large firms and for business students interested in seeing how the theoretical concepts of the Stakeholder View can be applied in practice.

Stakeholders Matter - A Stakeholder Based Theory of Strategy

by Sybille Sachs, Edwin Rühli, Isabelle Kern

In 2008, Sybille Sachs, Edwin Rühli and Isabelle Kern prepared a proposal for a theory-book. The authors' aim is to create a state-of-the-art book on stakeholder-oriented strategic management that calls for a new understanding in strategic management to overcome the obvious shortage of existing business models that the current financial crisis has clearly revealed.

The shareholder value model has led to mismanagement, to managers taking excessive risks and a market failure which not only endangers the affected firms but whole industries and in the end the global economy.

The new book will further advance the strategic approach “Stakeholder View of Strategy” (SHV) developed and published in the book “Redefining the Corporation” by Post, Preston & Sachs (2002) by understanding stakeholder relations as partnerships to draw on benefit potentials in an economic as well as societal sense. The upcoming paradigm regards stakeholders and a corporation as partners in a network can work together to exploit their common grounds to create new innovate solutions.
We want to provide insights to academics as well as management practitioners who wish to have a comprehensive view of strategic management.

In 2008 all these courses have been revised, extended and adapted to the newest international publications. These activities led to a time consuming effort which reduced our time for research and publications. Further we made significant contribution to the preparation of the “Master of Science in Business Administration” which will be launched in FS 2009.

In Practice

Due to the publications on our research projects in the last year more and more firms, professional institutions and governmental agencies invited us to present our results in their conferences, workshops and management development courses.

One event is of special importance:

In order to test our Stakeholder View of Strategy, developed in the context of Western economies in other cultural settings, we launched a project with Universities and firms in India. Two preliminary workshops are planned in spring and autumn 2009 in India. This project is supported by the Swiss Federal Authorities.

The Stakeholder View Forum opens a portal between theory and practice for a modern perspective of strategic management in order to enhance a firm’s sustainable success thanks to a professional organization of the relationship with all relevant stakeholders.
In 2008 the Forum Stakeholder View reviewed its activities. In addition to the support of the research on the Stakeholder View of Strategy (SHV) the Forum will offer in the future mediation in stakeholder networks as a new service to firms. This will enable firms to perceive similarities they have with their stakeholders and to cooperate with them in a partnership in which neither side will play a superior role. With this the Forum supports a goal of the CTI-project namely to transfer the research insights to firms in practice.

In this perspective the Forum Stakeholder View has broadened its board. The members are: Prof. Dr. Edwin Rühli (president), Prof. Dr. Sybille Sachs, Dr. Ulrich Gut, Prof. Dr. Ruth Schmitt, Dr. Thomas Streiff, Dr. Mark Veser and Isabelle Kern. The Forum also allocated its resources partly to this new activity.
